II. Settings delivery

The delivery settings are to be entered in the second part of the module configuration. Through this, you will be able to view a very precise delivery date.

The module can automatically estimate these two dates following the various proposed settings.

- Carriers processing time

You must indicate for each of these carriers installed on your store different data :

- Average delivery time (in days) from the moment the package is shipped and delivered to the carrier
- Ordering time for an order is shipped the same day.

For example: I place the packages to the carrier daily at 16h. So I treat all orders the same day until 14h time to prepare my expeditions. If a customer places an order on my website before 14h, the order is supported by the carrier the same day (provided that the products ordered are in stock), otherwise it is shipped the next day. So I have to put "14:00" as the cut off for that carrier.

- Delivery Days carrier

- Holidays

You must check all holidays and vacations about your country that would generate shipping deliveries and longer than usual dates.

- Processing time (in stock)

You can manage the processing time for orders and all products are in stock. Simply specify the number of days it takes processing time to add in the estimated delivery dates and shipping.

- Processing time (out stock)

You can manage the processing time for orders or at least one product is not in stock. Simply specify the number of days it takes processing time to add in the estimated delivery dates and shipping.

- Force stock

You can force the stock even if one or more of the control products are no longer available. The module does not take into account the field "Processing time (excluding inventory)" in the estimation of the shipping and delivery dates. However it may consider the field "Processing time (in stock)".

- Extra processing time

You can add exceptional treatment time in the day (for peak periods like Christmas) that will effectively extend delivery dates and shipping.

- Closing days

You can specify the days on your shipping department.

- Date format

Depending on your country and your preferences, you can display a custom date format.
